

THE PERFECT PLACE FOR IMPERFECT PEOPLE

APRIL 2012

"I think my dream is to get Christians to love non-Christians."

My first thought was, "That's kind of silly. I'm great at that. That's not a dream. We already do love non-Christians!" But then my dad continued to share his idea.

"We think we do. We think we're doing a good job at that, but how do you really show someone love? You spend time with them. You stand with them. You be with them. I think that's a big part of what love looks like." (Source)

How many non-Christians have you spent time with today? There's no need to label "Christian" or "non-Christian", but for the sake of this exercise, let's do it. Don't just be "nice" to non-Christians, get to know them, spend time with them, love them! What do you think? Do you do this already?
